LEARNING DISABILITIES PRIORITY AREAS:

Health and Social Care

Integrated health and social care services.

We want to create integrated health and social care services that will support people with learning disabilities through key transitional times in their life.

To do this, we need to ensure adequate time and thought is available to deliver services. We must also maximise opportunities for people to explore all possible options open to them.

WHAT IS IMPORTANT TO PEOPLE WITH LEARNING DISABILITIES?

People with learning disabilities would like training to be provided for all health and social care staff to increase understanding and empathy.

They would like to have access to the right information about services, which will help with their well-being. They would also like to feel valued and have opportunities to make their own choices that help them feel in control of their lives.

WHAT WE WILL DO TOGETHER:

- Increase learning disability training across health and social care.

WHAT DIFFERENCE WILL THIS MAKE?

- Increase understanding and empathy of staff when supporting people with a learning disability.
- Reduce anxiety and provide opportunities to have a say in how services are provided.

“ PEOPLE SAID

No matter the service
We all work with pride
We're partners, not rivals
We're on the same side."
